

Chapter 6 provides information on finding your current location by using bearing, azimuth, back azimuths, a compass, and a map. It describes techniques for correcting for declination and explains intersection, resection, latitude, and longitude. Additional information highlights Global Positioning Systems (GPS), base, townships, range, and sections.