

The material in Chapter 9 focuses on various math and statistical terms, including accuracy, precision, average, and mean. The content includes discussions of range and standard deviation and how they related to measured values. Fire-related topics including planning and production rate are also presented.